

PROFILE OF SHRI V.P. AGRAWAL, CHAIRMAN, AAI

Shri V.P. Agrawal took over Chairman, Airports Authority of India on 1st January 2009. Born on 2nd June 1955, he holds a degree in Master of Engineering (Power Electronics and Electrical Drives) and Bachelor of Engineering (Electrical) from IIT Roorkee.

Before taking over Chairman AAI, he served as Member (Planning) in AAI for over 2 years. As Member (Planning), he was associated with the challenging task of upgrading and creating world class infrastructure at 35 non-metro airports, setting up of greenfield airports besides modernisation of Chennai and Kolkata airports in India, provision of state-of-the-art CNS / ATM Equipment and the prestigious GAGAN Project.

Earlier, he also served as Regional Executive Director, Northern Region and North Eastern Region. During this tenure, he was responsible for ensuring timely completion and execution of all projects.

Shri Agrawal was associated with major engineering site preparation works for ATC automation at Delhi Airport. Shri Agrawal holds vast experience in engineering with specialization in Airport Management, Airport Planning, Passenger Facilitation and Expansion & Modification of Airports. He has special interest in ISO Certification of airports, Quality Management Systems, IT and Power Electronics. He is a member on number of Committees relating to development and improvement of aviation related infrastructure in the country. He has participated in number of Workshops / Seminars both at national and international level.

His dream is to bring airport infrastructure at the forefront.