Notes to Editor:

ABOUT THE COURSE

ACI in partnership with ICAO, ASI and SITA has been running The Global ACI-ICAO Airport Management Professional Accreditation Programme (AMPAP) since March 2007. The course seeks to develop a new generation of airport leaders in all functional areas of the airport business, promote the adherence to the highest professional standards and effective sharing of best managerial practices—all in a cross-cultural, highly interactive learning environment and provides its participants with the opportunity to broaden their career horizons as they earn the ACI-ICAO International Airport Professional (IAP) designation.

The prestigious qualification has bestowed Indian IAPs with the IAP-CoP membership. The vision of IAP-CoP is to be the premier global platform where IAP's advance the practice of airport management through interdisciplinary networking and developing best practices of airport business for the benefit of the aviation industry. The IAP-CoP will offer AMPAP participants, graduates, instructors and other AMPAP stakeholders an 'active and live' space for airport professionals to network, collaborate and share experiences, best practices and opinions among world-class experts. The IAP-CoP platform will provide a 'full service' forum to provide participants with access to industry perspectives and expertise beyond that of their local peers. As a result, IAP-CoP participants are not only advancing their own knowledge and networking capabilities, but they are creating opportunities to enhance the practice and profession of airport management on a global level.

With current IAP designations, AAI has, to its fold a huge 18 % of IAPs globally. Owing to this huge number these officers are well positioned to make their presence felt in almost all the forums/ committees of ACI and other such multilateral bodies. This will help AAI in achieving cooperation among all segments of the aviation industry and their stakeholders as well as with governments and international organizations, Influence international and national legislation, rules, policies, standards and practices based on established policies representing airports' interests and priorities, Maximize cooperation and mutual assistance among airports.
