

Airports Authority of India

Press Release

Subject : An example set by Mr. K. K. Jha the HR expert.

One must have heard of donation of Money, Blood, Eyes, Heart and other organs of human body; but have you heard donation of historical volume of books which are always kept by the individuals as a proud possession of original historical books !

In each field there are exceptions too in our society. Mr. K. K. Jha, a renowned Human Resource expert have crossed this barrier by setting an example for others by donating his proud possession of nine volumes of Mahabharata with narration & translation in Hindi and two volumes of Mahabharata in Sanskrit printed by Geeta Press, Gorkhpur in the year 1950 to an eminent educational institution in New Delhi who have equal proud in collecting such prestigious volumes.

Now these precious collection of old time are kept in the indology library center of Bhartiya Vidya Bhawan, New Delhi, for the benefit of young generation which is very essential in the present scenario where we all are forgetting our history & heritage.

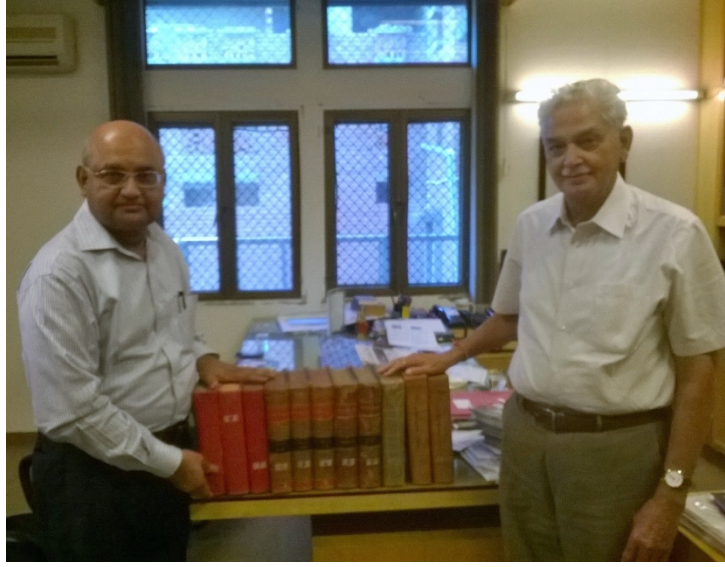

This exceptional vision of Mr. K. K. Jha, Member (HR), AAI has not only uplifted the image of Airports Authority of India rather will definitely lure other individuals to come forward for such venture in times to come.
