Resumption of operations at Vadodara Airport

New Delhi, 02nd August, 2019: Normal airport operations were restored at Airports Authority of India's Vadodara Airport in less than 24 hours after heavy rainfall across the city and nearby areas. Scheduled commercial flights and relief operations started on 1st August, 2019 from 1600 hrs. The first flight of Air India from New Delhi landed at Vadodara Airport at 1940hrs.

Airports Authority of India had decided to suspend flight operations at Vadodara Airport from 1600hrs on 31st August, 2019 after operational areas and runways got adversely affected due to torrential rainfall in Vadodara and adjoining area.

AAI's Vadodara Team with meticulous planning and teamwork successfully restored the normal operations within a day. Airport has also been advised to give priority to relief flights, as and when required.
