	If accommodation is not provided, does it not put the trainee officer in stress(travelling for long distance) compromising the safety of the training?	The information sought is "Non-Specific" in nature. Hence it does not fall under the purview of Right to Information Act, 2005.
3.	Will there be any compromise on the safety aspect of the training, if the ATCO is trained under stress because of a lack of facilities in ATSTOs like accommodation further compromising the safety on air? If so being the regulator what is the role of DGCA in protecting the interests of safety in Indian airspace in these cases?	Pertains to DGCA
4.	Does DGCA notice and convey any observations to AAI regarding the facilities like accommodation to be provided for trainees during safety-critical training(SCC.ACC) during the DGCA audits.	Pertains to DGCA
